

Pete Barlow is a member of the Structural Engineers Association of Washington & Idaho, The International Concrete Repair Institute and a member of the American Concrete Institute since 1978. Additionally, he is an active member of the American Concrete Institute on both a local and national level. He participates on several ACI national committee's and has authored sections of committee report 224.1 R- 06 "Causes Evaluation and Repair of Cracks in Concrete"; a contributing author of ACI publication SP-165 "Repair and Strengthening of Concrete Members with Adhesive Bonded Plates". He is a principal with Contech Services, Inc. a specialty contractor that performs concrete strengthening, repair and waterproofing. Contech Services, Inc. was established in 1993 and has performed 1,000's of repair projects throughout the western US.