

Martina Dabo has degrees in Renewable Energy and Biology, and currently is the Wind Program Manager for the Alaska Energy Authority. Martina's focus is the maximum economic and technical penetration of wind energy in the State of Alaska. Martina and has project management experience in wind farm development and other renewable energy applications. Before she focused on renewable energies, she worked for the German airline Lufthansa as Co-Pilot, as CFO for a HVAC company in Germany, and as Project and Business Development Manager for an Aircraft Refurbishing Company in Maine.